The site is a tall, wide, big structure (see sketch page 9) on flat, open, empty land. There are no other structures anywhere nearby and the back of the structure butts directly up against some high, natural feature. Far to the north of the structure are hills/mountains and about 20-100 miles to the west is a high, thumb-shaped plateau (see sketch page 16).

In front of the structure is a squarish, flat, levelled off area of 'man-made land' (ADL: like a helipad). At the front of the structure is a large door which opens into a huge, open, wide, deep room with high ceilings (ADL: like a warehouse). There is a constant humming sound present. There is also mercury somewhere.

A vehicle is moved/ assisted into the structure from outside. The action is "like" a tugboat pulling a ship into a harbor: namely something small maneuvering something big into the room so that it won't damage the walls or door. This motion is smooth and frictionless.

Associated with the room and the vehicle are the concepts: orderly, planned, examination, checks, aseptic, energy, hauling and "in support of industry." There are people there in white, one-piece suits "like" mechanics coveralls. The people have a strange "deep" feel.
